Construction Workers Upset Over Hiring Of Out Of State Workers

Reported by: Meredith Wood
 Web Producer: Elisabeth F. Shaffer
 Reported: Oct. 21, 2010 12:03 PM EDT
 Updated: Oct. 21, 2010 12:09 PM EDT

Building new schools for West Virginia's children has some people outraged.

A group of construction workers protested in front of the school building authority over complaints that the SBA doesn't hire local workers.

The group says hiring out of state workers and those with poor track records goes against the SBA's guidelines.

The SBA is in charge of handing out money to school districts for building and updating buildings.
